

THE GRAND RE-OPENING

You're invited!

12 May, 12 pm

After three long months, the Beechwood Skatepark upgrade is finished!

You definitely won't want to miss our fun-filled family day.

You must join us for the grand opening this Saturday afternoon!

First, Mayor Brian McAffer will officially open the park.

Then enjoy the FREE SAUSAGE SIZZLE and drinks and finally ...

GO CRAZY ON THOSE BOARDS AND BIKES!

At last, the moment you've ALL been waiting for!

Adjectives to describe the exciting scene

Pronouns such as you, we, us to refer to and include the reader

Exclamations to build excitement!

Visuals such as illustrations to show the reader how much fun the park will be.

Text connectives to link and sequence parts of the text

Let's investigate how grammar is used in persuasive texts such as the invitation opposite.

Use the guidelines to design an advertisement, poster or invitation of your own.

Use an exclamation to introduce your invitation and build excitement.

Use pronouns such as you, we or us to directly refer to and include the reader.

Use adjectives to describe the scene.

Use modal verbs and adverbs to persuade the audience.

Use thinking and feeling verbs to express opinions or appeal to the reader's emotions.

Include prepositional phrases to add details about where, when and how.

Use visuals such as illustrations to make your poster even more attractive.

Use text connectives to link and sequence the text.
